We're Opposed to Mail Order Concerns Because—

They have never contributed a cent to furthering the interests of our town—

Every cent received by them from this community is a direct loss to our merchants—

In almost every case their prices can be met right here, without delay in receiving goods and the possibility of mistakes in filling orders.

But—

The natural human trait is to buy where goods are cheapest. Local pride is usually secondary in the game of life as played today.

Therefore

Mr. Merchant and Business Men, meet your competitors with their own weapons—advertising.

Advertise!

The local field is yours. All you need do is to avail yourself of the opportunities offered. An advertisement in this paper will carry your message into hundreds of homes in this community. It is the surest medium of killing your greatest competitor. A space this size won't cost much. Come in and see us about it.

FORMER TEACHER

Of This County, Dies In Virginia.

Prof. R. H. Ingram, formerly of this county, died a few days ago in Virginia, his native state. Prof. Ingram taught school a number of years ago at Casky, Crofton and other places in this county. He was about seventy years old. He leaves a family. His wife was formerly Miss Helen Boxley, daughter of the late J. C. Boxley.

Jas. B. Allensworth.

Judge Jas. B. Allensworth, of Hopkinsville, is announced in this issue of the Times as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of this, the Third Judicial district, composed of the counties of Christian, Lyon, Trigg and Calloway, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, the 7th of next August.

Mr. Allensworth is a native of Todd county, where, after graduating from Lebanon law school, he practiced his profession for several years. In 1892 he removed to Hopkinsville where he was elected city attorney for two terms. He formed a law partnership with Judge Landes, former Judge of the Court of Appeals, and practiced with him for eight years. He is now with the law firm of Breathitt, Allensworth & Breathitt, of Hopkinsville.

Mr. Allensworth is a capable attorney, and has been much service in the law. He has filled this office for several months in the absence of Mr. Smith while in the campaign, and in a very satisfactory manner, he is an able prosecutor and eminent lawyer fitted for this very important position. Mr. Allensworth is a Democrat of many years standing, and for more than twenty years has made speeches for his party wherever opportunity offered. He is a very pleasant gentleman and makes friends wherever he goes. He has visited our town a number of times and has made many friends here who would be glad to see him occupying the position of Commonwealth's Attorney.

Mr. Allensworth is the first to announce for this office in this district, and no doubt the voters will have an opportunity of meeting him before the canvass is over; and we predict that they will find him to be everything that his friends claim for him.

He asks that you consider his claims, and give him your support and influence, if found worthy.—Calloway Times.

Since Fashions Changed.

Our memory goes back to the time when some brave and beautiful girl ran forward every time an accident happened, and tearing her white petticoat into strips, made a tourniquet for the victim; but now we don't suppose she'd have anything tearable about her person except a handkerchief and a powder rag.—Ohio State Journal.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Mayor Carter Harrison, a former "newsie," planned today for an "old newsboy's day" in Chicago, when men who have risen to high places would again sell papers from the corners they occupied years ago. Proceeds of the day's sale are to be given to a fund for the unemployed.

SKELETON OF COW

Mrs. Baker S. Leavell died Monday night at her home in Todd county between this city and Exton, aged about 65 years. Catlett and Miss Mattie Leavell, of Todd county. The funeral and burial took place at Trenton Wednesday.—Pembroke Journal.

BIG LOSS.

Kentucky Live Stock Destroyed Since Quarantine.

Kentucky live stock valued at $37,670.40 has been destroyed since quarantine, regulations against the hoof and mouth disease were imposed early in November, according to a table of figures given out by Dr. Thomas M. Owen, Federal officer in charge of eradicating the stock disease in this State. Of this, the Government's share of reimbursement for the loss will be $18,835.20, or one-half. The other half, according to J. W. Newman, Commissioner of Agriculture, the next Kentucky General Assembly will be asked to pay, the money to go to the owners of stock condemned. To date 761 head of cattle and 262 hogs have been destroyed.

Thought Jugs Were Ducks.

Strange as it may seem, Joe Cosgrove and J. E. Pattie, of Clarksville, are not finding any keen enjoyment in the title of "Champion Duck Hunters of America," which is being bestowed upon them by their friends. The reason for that—but that's getting ahead of the story.

One day last week several Clarksville citizens were standing, engaged in conversation, in the rear room of the new city hall in Montgomery county's capital city, when one's attention was called to something unusual going on on the opposite side of the river.

"By the holy ram, boys," exclaimed "Pattie," "those curious-looking things are nothing in the world but mallard ducks, and I'm on my way right now to go home and get my gun. You fellows stay here and you'll see some shooting, sure as you are a foot high."

When Joe came back with his gun, Jess Pickering pointed out that the best way to get a close shot at the ducks was to make a circuitous approach to the game on hands and knees. Joe agreed, and hunted up Pattie, and directed him to crawl along in the same manner though from an opposite direction, and in that way they would be able to bag every duck in the river.

While the crowd in the city hall room watched breathlessly, Joe and Pattie were slowly crawling along for about 200 yards through the bushes. When they came together both straightened up to face, and, lo! and behold! the "ducks" turned out to be three empty jugs which somebody had flung out with hooks for a spell of "nigger fishing."

After Joe and Pattie had gratified themselves with a heap of eating, they came back sheepishly, while the laughs and drinks were both on them.—Leaf Chronicle.

Segregation of the 40,000 negroes in Louisiana is the logical outcome of a police power of the state, according to an opinion handed down in criminal court there Thursday by Judge James P. Grevy. It states neither the fourteen amendment nor the Kentucky bill of rights, said the court. The ordinance contemplates no immediate ouster of one race from blocks where the other predominates, but requires that future removals of citizens be made only to blocks where their race is in the majority.
